Listen to a man talking about vegetarianism in the UK and fill in the gaps (1-10) in the following sentences with NO MORE THAN THREE words or numbers. DON'T FORGET TO TRANSFER ALL YOUR ANSWERS TO THE ANSWER SHEET.

During the national vegetarian week people are encouraged to have a 1 lifestyle.

2 of the population in the UK are vegetarian.

Vegans are different from vegetarians because they don't eat or 3 animal products.

The reasons why people are reducing the consumption of meat are:

- the 4 that is given to animals
- effects of meat or fish production on the environment
- food 5: BSE or mad cow disease
- reduction of the risk of cancer, 6, obesity or high blood pressure

Organic farmers grow their food without using 7, pesticides, fertilizers, drugs or antibiotics.

Animals farmed in an organic way also have more 8 and healthy food.

The food in farmers' markets is sold 9 to the buyer.

Some people don't mind paying more for organic food because it 10 .

EJERCICIO 1 MARTHA'S VINEYARD

<http://learningenglish.voanews.com>

This week on our program, we tell you about two islands in Massachusetts, in the New England area of the northeastern United States. Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket are popular places to visit, especially in the warmer months.

Both are known for their sailing and sunsets and fun things to do (1B). Martha's Vineyard is also known for its tall cliffs overlooking the Atlantic Ocean. The island is about 13 kilometres off the coast and is less than 260 square kilometres (2C).

Homes designed like those of earlier times line the streets of Edgartown, Oak Bluffs and Vineyard Haven. These are the major towns on Martha's Vineyard (3B).

For most of the year, the population of Martha's Vineyard is about 15,000. During the summer more than 100,000 people crowd the island. And we do mean crowd. Look around and you might see some Hollywood stars and other faces of the rich and famous (4B).

Some people arrive by boat, including a ship that carries passengers and cars. Others come by plane (5C). Many visitors return year after year.

Now, we continue our story with Shirley Griffith and Rich Kleinfeldt as your travel guides.

The towns and the quieter country areas of Martha's Vineyard all offer places to stay (6C). Small hotels and homes for visitors on the island may not cost much. Other hotels cost hundreds of dollars per night. Some people save money by preparing their own food (7A). Others eat in the many restaurants on the island. Hungry visitors like the seafood at several famous eating places like the Black Dog Tavern in Vineyard Haven. And they can stop into small stores that sell sweets like ice cream and fudge candy.

During warm weather the Vineyard is a good place for many different activities. People can play golf or catch fish. They can ride in sailboats or motor boats. They can water ski and swim (8C). They can take quiet walks along sandy beaches and among the thick green trees. They can take pictures of birds found around small areas of fresh water or on the old stone walls surrounding many farms.

Many families with children spend their summer holidays in Martha's Vineyard. One of the popular places for families is the Flying Horses Carousel in Oak Bluffs. It is the oldest continually operated merry-go-round ride in the United States (9B). The colourful wood horses that turn in a circle were created in 1876.

One of the best places for children and adults to swim is the Joseph A. Sylvia state beach. The water there is warmer and calmer than at some of the other Vineyard beaches (10A).

EJERCICIO 2 VEGETARIANISM IN THE UK

www.speakup.it

Vegetarianism is increasing in the UK. According to the Vegetarian Society, the numbers of people giving up meat are growing. There's even a "National Vegetarian Week" organised every year to encourage people to try a meat-free lifestyle (1).

A recent poll estimated that three million people (5.7 per cent of the population (2)) were vegetarian. Vegetarians (people who don't eat meat) and vegans (people who don't eat or use any animal products (3)) are becoming increasingly common in UK culture. Visit a British supermarket and you will see a wide range of vegetarian ingredients and prepared meals on the shelves, including vegetarian sausages and vegan cheese.

So why are Brits cutting out meat? Many are unhappy about the poor treatment of animals (4) and the effects of meat and fish production on the environment. Worries about food safety (5) (for example, BSE or "mad cow disease") also play a part. Others choose to change their eating habits to improve their general health. According to the Vegetarian Society, a meat-free diet could help reduce the risk of certain cancers and heart disease (6), as well as obesity and high blood pressure.

Another rising trend is in how food is produced. Many people are rejecting GM (genetically modified) food and intensive farming practices. They want their food to be organically produced. Organic farmers use very few or no chemicals (7), pesticides or fertilisers, and organic meat is produced without the use of drugs and antibiotics. Organically-farmed animals also have more living space (9) and more nutritious food.

According to the Soil Association, three out of every four UK households now buy some type of organic food. Some get organic meat, fruit and vegetables from farmers' markets, where products are sold directly to the consumer (9). Others have a box of organic fruit and vegetables delivered to their homes every week. Many people buy organic produce in their local supermarket. Although it's often more expensive, fans of organic food say it tastes much better! (10)
